JONES VARGAS STAFF SENDS 20 HOLIDAY CARE PACKAGES TO MARINES SERVING OVERSEAS

Two northern Nevada Marines among unit set to receive gift packages

RENO, Nev. (Dec. 16, 2008) – Staff members at the Reno office of Jones Vargas are helping to make some Marines' holidays a little brighter this year with care packages shipped overseas to Marine Corp Unit 44035 currently serving in Iraq. More than one dozen Jones Vargas employees took part in the law firm's "Adopt-A-Troop" for the holidays program, collecting movies, CDs, books, magazines, games, toiletries, and plenty of snacks and candy in an effort to bring a little bit of home to the desert while the Marines are thousands of miles away from friends and family.

And the adoption of this particular Marine Corp Unit allows one Jones Vargas employee a chance to send more than just snacks and supplies to the troops. One of Jones Vargas' accounting clerks is the mother of one of the Unit's members who was deployed for a second time to Iraq five months ago. In addition, one other Marine hails from Nevada and is set to receive one of the nearly 20 packages shipped on Nov. 21 to ensure arrival in time for the holidays.

"We are happy to show our appreciation to this group of Marines during the holidays," said Ann Cook, a paralegal at Jones Vargas and participant in the Adopt-A-Troop program. "With the economy and recent elections we sometimes forget that more than 100,000 of our young men and women are currently serving in Iraq and Afghanistan. It's important to let them know we remember them and are grateful for their sacrifice."
